

Everyone's a Seed - Plant Health and Creative Writing

What does a day out fruit-picking mean to you? What memories do you have around trees, fruit, and flowers?

Join us for a Creative Writing Workshop about plants. Beginners especially welcome!

When: Wednesday 28 August 2024

Where: Kemp's Farm, West End Lane, Horsforth, Leeds. LS18 5ES

What:

Part 1: 2-5 pm: Creative Writing Workshop, by invitation only, maximum 25 people.

Including tractor ride round the farm; seasonal fruit picking if available; info on plant health and local ecosystems; talking about our individual experiences with the natural environment; writing towards a collaborative poem.

Part 2: 1-5 pm Stall and Activities.

Stalls, talks and fun activities in an outdoor covered barn, with DEFRA, FERA, Black in Plant Science, Yorkshire Wildlife Trust and Natural England. Everyone welcome to this part of the day. If children are present, please note they must have adult accompaniment.

Register: 2-5 pm: Creative Writing Workshop: click here to register
1-5 pm Stalls and Activities: no registration needed.

A fun, creative, thought-provoking day for all, ending in a collaborative poem! You will join enthusiastic, experienced, published poets, who will guide you in putting your own thoughts into words.

Funded by Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (DEFRA), organised by Food and Environment Research Agency (FERA), Celia Knight Consulting, Black in Plant Science, and Leeds Trinity University (LTU). The project is to raise awareness of plant health, to increase the diversity of the population interested in plant health, and to do these things by connecting science and the arts in the form of creative writing.

Let's get Leeds/Bradford on the plant health map!
